II. Basis for Jurisdiction

Federal courts are courts of limited jurisdiction (limited power). Generally, only two types of cases can be heard in federal court: cases involving a federal question and cases involving diversity of citizenship of the parties. Under 28 U.S.C. § 1331, a case arising under the United States Constitution or federal laws or treaties is a federal question case. Under 28 U.S.C. § 1332, a case in which a citizen of one State sues a citizen of another State or nation and the amount at stake is more than $75,000 is a diversity of citizenship case. In a diversity of citizenship case, no defendant may be a citizen of the same State as any plaintiff.

What is the basis for federal court jurisdiction? (check all that apply)

Federal question

Diversity of citizenship

Fill out the paragraphs in this section that apply to this case.

A. If the Basis for Jurisdiction Is a Federal Question

List the specific federal statutes, federal treaties, and/or provisions of the United States Constitution that are at issue in this case.

s 18 U.S.C. s922(g)(1) a prohibited person in possession of a firearm, "Crime of Violence" that triggers An increase in his base offence level pursuant to s2K2.1(a).

B. If the Basis for Jurisdiction Is Diversity of Citizenship1. The Plaintiff(s)*a. If the plaintiff is an individual

The plaintiff, (name) Ricardo Cruz Serrano, is a citizen of the State of (name) Puerto Rico.

b. If the plaintiff is a corporation

The plaintiff, (name), is incorporated under the laws of the State of (name), and has its principal place of business in the State of (name).

(If more than one plaintiff is named in the complaint, attach an additional page providing the same information for each additional plaintiff.)

2. The Defendant(s)a. If the defendant is an individual

The defendant, (name) Ricardo Cruz Serrano, is a citizen of the State of (name) Pennsylvania. Or is a citizen of (foreign nation) Puerto Rico.

Pro Se 1 (Rev. 12/16) Complaint for a Civil Case

b. If the defendant is a corporation

The defendant, (name) _____, is incorporated under the laws of the State of (name) _____, and has its principal place of business in the State of (name) _____.

Or is incorporated under the laws of (foreign nation) _____, and has its principal place of business in (name) _____.

(If more than one defendant is named in the complaint, attach an additional page providing the same information for each additional defendant.)

3. The Amount in Controversy

The amount in controversy—the amount the plaintiff claims the defendant owes or the amount at stake—is more than $75,000, not counting interest and costs of court, because (explain):
10,000,000,000,000

III. Statement of Claim

Write a short and plain statement of the claim. Do not make legal arguments. State as briefly as possible the facts showing that each plaintiff is entitled to the damages or other relief sought. State how each defendant was involved and what each defendant did that caused the plaintiff harm or violated the plaintiff's rights, including the dates and places of that involvement or conduct. If more than one claim is asserted, number each claim and write a short and plain statement of each claim in a separate paragraph. Attach additional pages if needed.

I Ricardo Cruz Serrano was abused by the State Police in Puerto Rico because Puerto Rico wanted the U.S. Navy and all Navy Veterans out of Puerto Rico. I was Nearly killed twice by the Puerto Rico Government and I was sexually assaulted by two women State Police Officers pulled down my Swimming trunks in a tourist area and attempted to Burn my penis and castrate me under a hot lamp In tourist area Condado, P.R. they then tried to murder me at the beach by drowning me to death. Second attempted murder attempted happened when Puerto Rico State Police At 1-22 Bayamon, P.R. Started firing his gun at me with a hail of bullets and missed and arrested me after giving chase.

Attention D.O.J.

In 2001 after 9/11 the State Police of Puerto Rico attempted to Murder me by shooting his Service Revolver at me while I was inside my 1995 Chevy Malibu , Plate CYH436, Ricardo Cruz Serrano, 52 Calle Amanecer, Barrio Pueblo Nuevo, P.R. 00693. I J-Turn my car in order To Dodge the bullets and one bullet hit the passenger side tire. I was arrested and charged With attempted murder of a State Police officer and my 1995 Chevy Malibu, plate436 Was confiscated and sold by the justice department and the U.S. Justice Department took Ballistic reports In 2001 of my Car Tire. I called Tribunal de Bayamon (787) 785-3300 and Tribunal de San Juan (787) 274-0016 for copies of the Attempted Murder Police Report And the Government of Puerto Rico, Estado Libre asociado is giving me the run around After filing two OAT 85 forms to get my records free because I am a U.S. Veteran. I Respectfully request copies of the Criminal Charges brought against Ricardo Cruz Serrano By the Justice Department , Including ballistic report for my upcoming day in court. I await response and affirmative action on this request Under us Constitution Amendment 5.

VS

The Commonwealth of Puerto Rico

Summary of Case:

claim under Title VII of the Civil Rights Act, 42 U.S.C. § 200d the Commonwealth under Puerto Rico Laws 17 and 69, 29 L.P.R.A. §§ 155-155m, 1321-1341 (sexual harassment and gender discrimination), we have also held that the Commonwealth has not waived its sovereign immunity with respect to these laws. Hernandez-Mendez v. Rivera, 137 F.Supp. 3d 142, 161 (D.P.R. 2015).

State Law Claims In plaintiffs' Amended Complaint (d.e. 21), they state that this Court has jurisdiction under Articles 1802 and 1803 of the Puerto Rico Civil Code, "Puerto Rico Labor Laws including Law No. 80 of May 30, 1976," "Puerto Rico Law against discrimination and retaliation," "whistler blower act," "state law against retaliation, and equivalent Federal Labor Laws" (sic). (d.e. 21, ¶¶ 2-3).

). Because Title VII was passed pursuant to said power, Eleventh Amendment immunity does not protect defendants PPR and the Commonwealth from claims for damages under Title VII

18 U.S.C.

§ 922(g)(1), a prohibited person in possession of a firearm.

"crime of violence" that triggers an increase in his base offense level pursuant to § 2K2.1(a)

The force clause provides that a "crime of violence" encompasses any felony that "has as an element the use, attempted use, or threatened use of physical force against the person of another." U.S. Sentencing Guidelines Manual § 4B1.2(a)(1) (2016).

attempted murder under Puerto Rico law qualifies as a "crime of violence" under the Guidelines is de novo. See United States v. Steed, 879 F.3d 440, 445 (1st Cir. 2018).

as an element the use, attempted use, or threatened use of physical force against the person of another" (the so-called force clause) or is one of several enumerated crimes, including "murder."

See United States v. Ball, 870 F.3d 1, 5

(1st Cir. 2017) ("We may affirm the district court's sentence if any one of the ways that an offense can constitute a crime of violence .

Model Penal Code § 2.02(5) ("When recklessness suffices to establish an element, such element also is established if a person acts purposely or knowingly.").

enumerated crimes of violence include aiding and abetting such offenses. See U.S. Sentencing Guidelines Manual § 4B1.2, cmt. n.1 (2016).

"attempting to commit" a "crime of violence" is itself a "crime of violence." U.S. Sentencing Guidelines Manual § 4B1.2, cmt. n.1

(2016); see also United States v. DeLuca, 17 F.3d 6, 10 (1st Cir. 1994)

"attempt" according to the law of federal "attempt." But, "[i]n this circuit, as in a number of others, the court has taken the Model Penal Code as its guide" in defining the federal law of "attempt." United States v. Doyon, 194 F.3d 207, 210 (1st Cir.

the Model Penal Code both defines "attempt" as "an act or omission constituting a substantial step," § 5.01(1)(c), and then goes on to define a "substantial step" as one that is "strongly corroborative of the actor's criminal purpose." Doyon, 194 F.3d at 211 (quoting Model Penal Code § 5.01(2)).

For these purposes, we treat Puerto Rico law as state law. See González Figueroa v. J.C. Penney P.R., Inc., 568 F.3d 313, 318 (1st Cir. 2009) ("In regard to law-determination, Puerto Rico is the functional equivalent of a state.").

Mr. Ricardo Serrano
Easton, Pennsylvania

Dear Ricardo,

Thank you for taking the time to express your views regarding foreign policy and our national security.

My Administration is devoted to protecting the American homeland and the American people, promoting American prosperity, preserving peace through strength, and advancing American influence. My National Security Strategy (NSS) describes how my Administration will protect and advance these four core national interests. It is based on a clear-eyed assessment of our interests and a determination to tackle the challenges we face. It acknowledges that there are military, economic, and political competitions in which we must engage to protect American interests and values. My Administration has the confidence to compete.

We are committed to protecting the homeland, the American people, and the American way of life. The Government has a fundamental responsibility to keep Americans safe and to strengthen our sovereignty. A central principle of my national security policy is asserting control over our Nation's borders. My Administration will enhance border security and vetting, and improve transportation security. The United States has a sovereign right to determine who enters our country and under what circumstances. A priority action in the NSS is securing our southern border through the construction of a border wall. In addition, to protect Americans from threats emanating from outside our borders, we will deploy a layered missile defense system to defend our homeland against missile attacks from states such as North Korea and Iran.

Economic security is national security. A strong economy protects the American people and sustains American power. We will rejuvenate the American economy for the benefit of American workers and companies. We will insist on fair and reciprocal economic relationships to address trade imbalances. We are committed to preserving our leadership in research and technology and to protecting our economy from competitors who unfairly acquire our intellectual property. And we will embrace America's energy dominance, because unleashing abundant energy resources stimulates our economy.

Another central principle of my national security policy is achieving peace through strength. While I am committed to seeking diplomatic solutions to our critical international challenges, we must grow and modernize our military forces—including space and cyber capabilities—to ensure our military power is second to none. Despite the tremendous gains our military has made against ISIS and al-Qa'ida in Syria and Iraq, jihadist terrorist organizations continue to present a dangerous threat to America. Working with partner nations is essential to meeting these challenges, as is ensuring that our allies are contributing their fair share to our mutual defense and to the defeat of foreign terrorist threats.

America has been among the greatest forces for good in the world. My foreign policy celebrates America's influence in the world as a positive force that can help set the conditions for peace and prosperity. We will continue to champion American values and offer encouragement to those struggling for human dignity in their societies.

Thank-you again for writing. To learn more about how the NSS will bolster our Nation's foreign policy and improve our military readiness, please visit www.WhiteHouse.gov. As President, I am committed to strengthening our Nation and protecting the American people.

Sincerely,

Mr. Ricardo Cruz Serrano
Easton, Pennsylvania

Dear Mr. Serrano,

Thank you for writing to me about a top priority of my Administration--working with Tribal Nations to invest in the future of Native communities, empower Tribal self-determination, and support prosperity for Native people.

Respect for Tribal sovereignty and self-governance is the cornerstone of our Federal Indian Policy. That's why, in my first week as President, I issued a memorandum reaffirming our Nation's trust and treaty obligations to Tribal Nations, and directed the heads of executive departments and agencies to engage in regular, meaningful, and robust consultation with Tribal officials.

I have since signed an Executive Order to advance educational and economic opportunity for Native Americans, as well as strengthen Tribal colleges and universities. Through the American Rescue Plan, my Administration invested $20 billion to help Tribal governments combat the COVID-19 crisis and support Indigenous families, businesses, jobs, and communities. The Bipartisan Infrastructure Law invests over $13 billion directly to Tribal communities to advance opportunity and lay the foundation for a bright future. And earlier this year, I signed into law the reauthorization of the Violence Against Women Act, which expands important protections for Tribal women and children.

I also believe that we have an obligation to ensure that Native Americans are seen, heard, and represented in all spaces across the Federal Government and beyond. To live up to this obligation, I was proud to restart the White House Council on Native American Affairs and to appoint Congresswoman Deb Haaland of the Pueblo of Laguna to serve as United States Secretary of the Interior—the first Native American to serve in a presidential Cabinet.

Today and every day, we must recognize the invaluable contributions of Tribal Nations and Indigenous peoples, who continue to shape our great Nation. We must also remember the painful truth of our shared history—a pattern of federal policies that systematically sought to assimilate and displace Native peoples and eradicate Native cultures. I know we cannot rewrite the wrongs of the past, but we must make good on the promises of our Nation to Tribal nations moving forward. Together, we will create a brighter future built on fairness, opportunity, and respect for all Native peoples.

Sincerely,

Subject: Attempted Murder by Puerto Rico Government.

Honorable D.O.J.

During the Governor Pedro J. Rossello Administration in the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico
In 1996 I served as a Rovering Patrol in my 1995 Chevy Malibu nightly around the Capital
Of Puerto Rico under the department of justice community policing program. I went To the Capital one afternoon during 1999 Marina Fuera de Vieques protest and as I made Maneuvers to avoid a crowd of two thousand people and that's when Capital State Police Made their move and rammed their State Cruiser rights into the passenger side of my Vehicle and my 1995 chevy malibu tailed spin 360 degrees and almost killed some protesters
Across the street in el Departamento de ninos y Mujeres, all action caught live on capital Cameras and Telemundo 2 P.R. most likely. La Policia de Puerto Rico arrested me and Released at the San Juan Station.

Night fall came into the question when the attempted murder plot and order was to be Carried out by El Estado Libre Asociado State Police, Green Uniforms in Tourist Area:
Plaza de Anchor, Condado, Puerto Rico. 2:00 a.m.: Two women and Three Men Estado

Assocido Police grabbed me and the women pulled down my swimming trunks and Say, Vamos a frite los Huevos"(let's fried you eggs) over a extremely hot street lamp
On the tourist site with a Giant Navy Anchors, LAMP 120 F. I Fought the 5 Officers
And I fell back on my butt and burned all my skin off as I yelled for help.
Since that plan had failed the women police officers took off running in another Patrol car. the three police officers then dragged me to the beach in the rear of The tourist Hotel and attempted to kill me by drowning me, putting sand in my nose, Mouth and ears for about 20 minutes, since I'm trained from the U,S, Navy in Water-broading the Police failed the intent, Actions to commit the Crime and Failure
To commit the crime which has no Statues of Limitations Incomplete Crime, Inchoate
Crime: Attempted, Conspiracy and Solicitation. all records, time, date are recorder
In the San Juan VA Medical Center, 10 calle Casia, San Juan, P.R. 00921-3201.

A year after this incident I was coming to San Juan, Puerto Rico from Vega Baja, P.R.
Down P.R. Interstate highway I-22. the Government of Puerto Rico ordered an Assassination
On Ricardo Cruz Serrano, Driving a 1995 Chevy Malibu, Plate CYH436. The State Police
Were given the go to shoot to kill. As soon as I got to the Bayamon, P.R. Toll Booth
In front of the Puerto Rico Federal Correctional Prison to pay the 0.35 cents a man with A green Jacket commence firing at me and attempted tom assassination me by shooting
Me in the head and chess. I immediately J-TURNED my vehicle to escape the bullets
And the man shot my passenger side tire and I drove off the opposite direction at 80mph
On three tires. I was followed by 12 State Police and I stopped to turn myself into Police when the man in the green jacket said he was the police and attempted to forces
My face and teeth on the highway pavement. I was Charged with attempted Murder

Of a State Police officer and put into State Prison "OSO BLANCO" "LAS MARVINAS" area AZUL. the U.S. Department of Justice Confiscated my 1995 Chevy Malibu and the Lab took the Ballistic reports that found the officer's bullet in my tire and the officer Of La Policia de Puerto Rico had 15 years in the police force and lied under oath When the Police officer was questioned on use of his service revolver. the Judge Yelled at the officer and called him a liar and reduced my charge down to simple Aggression and served only 3 months. This is the second incident of Attempted Murder on an American Disabled Veteran and demonstrates a pattern of Civil Rights Violations, Human Rights Violation in Puerto Rico. this is an incomplete crime And inchoate crime with Attempted, Conspiracy and Solicitation motives This Crime Meets the three elements of attempted murder: A) Intent B) Actions to commit The Crime, C) Failure to Commit the Crime. I hereby declare this intent to file Suit with the U.S. District courts of Puerto Rico.

Washington, D.C. 20500

Honorable Joseph R. Biden Jr,

ATTEMPTED MURDER:

Punishment varies from a fine or imprisonment of up to one year, or both, and if bodily injury results or if such acts include the use, attempted use, or threatened use of a dangerous weapon, explosives, or fire shall be fined or imprisoned up to ten years or both, and if death results or if such acts include kidnapping or an attempt to kidnap, aggravated sexual abuse or an attempt to commit aggravated sexual abuse, or an attempt to kill, shall be subject to imprisonment for any term of years or for life or may be sentenced to death.

Attempted murder is the failed or aborted attempt to murder another person¹². It consists of both an action and an intention, where a person must take a direct step towards the killing and must have the specific intent to kill that person¹. In order for a person to be guilty of attempted murder, that person should have deliberately, intentionally or recklessly with extreme disregard for human life, attempted to kill someone.

Attempted Murder

An explanation of how Attempted Murder Charges work, police arrest and booking procedures, Defense Options for being charged with attempted murder, and how a Lawyer can help.

By Mark Theoharis

Of all the crimes punished by society, none are more serious than the crime of murder, the intentional and unlawful taking of a human life. Apart from the federal crimes of espionage and treason, murder is the only crime for which the death penalty is a potential punishment, though only in some states.

The crime of attempted murder can be charged when a person intends to commit murder and tries to carry out the killing but, for whatever reason, is unable to accomplish it. Like murder itself, attempted murder is a serious crime and one that comes with some of the most severe penalties in the criminal justice system.

Murder and Attempted Murder

Attempted murder is the failed or aborted attempt to murder another person. Just like other crimes, attempted murder consists of both an action and an intention. In attempted murder, a person must take a direct step towards the killing and must have the specific intent to kill that person.

The Action

In order to be convicted of attempted murder, a prosecutor must show that the accused took a "direct step" towards killing the targeted victim. Courts have explained the requirement for a direct step by stating that a person must go beyond merely preparing to commit the crime, and instead cross over into actually perpetrating it. Preparation is thinking about committing the crime, talking about it, or otherwise planning to do it, while perpetration is taking an action that puts the plan in motion and that would result in the intended killing. The kinds of actions that are enough to be a direct step differs from case to case, though there are a range of actions that can qualify, such as:

Stalking, tracking, or ambushing. This includes hiding out in waiting, tracking the victim down, or following the victim, hoping for an opportunity to commit the murder.

Luring. Includes trying to convince the victim to come to a specific place or take specific actions that will make it possible for the victim to be murdered.

Breaking-in. For example, unlawfully sneaking into a home, property, or other place where the victim is or thought to be.

Constructing. This might include collecting all the materials necessary for the murder, such as the parts of a bomb, and starting to put them together.

Soliciting. For instance, paying or convincing someone else to commit the murder, or even convincing an unknowing person to carry out a key part of the crime, such as unknowingly planting a bomb.

The Intention

You cannot accidentally commit attempted murder. To be convicted of attempted murder, a prosecutor must show that the accused specifically intended to commit the crime. The prosecutor must not only show that the accused intended to kill, but that the intent was to kill the specific victim.

Intent to act. You must have the intent to take the required actions. In other words, you have to intend to carry out the direct step. For example, if you are thinking about killing someone with a home-made bomb and, coincidentally, end up buying the pieces you need to make the bomb before you ever know how to make it, you don't have the intent to commit the direct step. If, on the other hand, you research bomb making and then buy the material and put the bomb together, you have committed a direct step.

Intent to kill. To be convicted of attempted murder, the accused must intend to cause a specific harm, namely to kill the targeted victim. You cannot, for example, commit attempted murder if you intended to only maim, frighten, or disfigure someone. It can be difficult for the prosecutor to prove this point, but often, the circumstances of the crime lead naturally to this conclusion. For example, if you hit someone in the head with a lead pipe, that alone may be enough to show that you intended to kill the person. On the other hand, hitting someone in the legs is less lethal, and may not amount to attempted murder.

Defenses

Some prosecutions fail because the state's attorney cannot prove that the accused committed a direct step, or that the accused had the specific intent to murder. But sometimes, the jury may not convict due to a particular defense offered by the defendant. Because an attempted murder does not result in the intended harm, specific defenses are available that are not always relevant in other cases.

Impossibility. An impossibility defense is one where the accused doesn't deny having committed the acts, but instead claims that even if everything went to plan, there couldn't have been a murder anyway. For example, the accused might claim that the gun used in the attempt was a non-functioning replica, so the murder could never have happened. However, some states have passed laws that abolish the impossibility defense, and in these states, it is not an accepted defense for any attempted crimes, including attempted murder.

Renunciation or withdrawal. Some states allow for a "renunciation" defense, sometimes known as withdrawal. This defense provides that even though the accused committed at least one direct step, the accused later decided not to commit the murder. Unlike showing that the prosecution failed to adequately prove one of the elements, the accused must prove that the crime was abandoned because the defendant intentionally stopped any and all efforts to continue it or took steps to prevent the murder from occurring.

Punishments for Attempted Murder

Because murder is the most serious crime and has the most serious penalties associated with it, attempted murder is also punished very harshly. However, while some states allow for the death penalty in murder cases, that punishment is not possible in attempted murder cases. Attempted murder is always a felony offense, and states typically impose a prison sentence equal to about half the sentence associated with a murder conviction.

Degrees. Like murder, attempted murder is charged as either a first degree or second degree offense. First degree attempted murder means the person intentionally, and with premeditation, tried to kill someone else; while second degree attempted murder means the accused acted without premeditation, or acted in a fit of passion. Second degree murder also includes deaths that occur while the accused is engaged in committing another felony, such as arson or burglary. (However, states can vary as to how they categorize first and second degree murder.)

Sentence. A conviction for first degree attempted murder brings a lengthier prison sentence than a conviction for second-degree attempted murder. First degree attempted murder is often punished with a life sentence, though the convicted does have the possibility to receive parole. Second degree attempted murder usually comes with a lengthy prison sentence, often ranging from between 5 to 15 years in prison.
